Why do they all do it?...

The nonprofit VolunteerMatch.org lists 20 reasons for volunteering, and we've put together our own lists of the benefits you can receive from doing a good deed. But every person has their own motivation.

Hear from just a few of the generous people who give their time with Habitat and find out why they choose to work to improve lives through shelter.

"We volunteer to share whatever we have so that others can have the same or even more." – Tom Chap volunteers with and serves as a board member for Greater Sioux Falls Habitat.

"I wanted to deliver a message that to take an action is not so difficult. Any good deed for the sake of others can change the world." – Shota Taguchi volunteers through one of Habitat's campus chapters at Aoyama Gakuin University in Japan.

"The joy my mom and I feel when we volunteer together is truly amazing. We are surrounded by other women in the community. And within a week, we see the house from start to finish. The volunteer experience is so rewarding, and we look forward to it every year!" – Natalie Bergeron volunteers with Habitat Greater Orlando through Habitat's Women Build volunteer program.

"I volunteer to give back to the community. Being able to pass by Habitat homes on my daily commute shows the real change we are able to make in the Kenosha area." – Heather Lee volunteers as an Admin Intern with Habitat for Humanity of Kenosha.

How to get involved...

1. We have a wide array of committees and programs that could benefit from your skill set!
